

A diagram illustrating a web server architecture. A large light blue rectangle represents the webserver. Inside this rectangle, on the left, are two smaller white rectangles with black borders. The first white rectangle is labeled 'source' and the second is labeled 'include'. To the right of these two rectangles, still within the light blue rectangle, is the text 'webserver'.

source

include

webserver